Part A: Develop strategy for managing personal health and wellbeing

This task requires you to develop strategy for managing personal health and wellbeing.

To begin this task, read the following scenario and email. Complete the instructions that follow.

SCENARIO

Bounce Fitness are looking to offer a wider variety of class modes in order to reach more potential clients. This would mean adding online classes to the schedule for those sessions that can be done without any specialist equipment.

In the Cairns Bounce Fitness centre, Paul (Centre Manager) has been working hard to schedule and accommodate these extra sessions, while managing a reduction in his Fitness Instructor work hours following a request to cut back on shifts from Ashely and Jim.

PERSONAL INSTRUCTORS/FITNESS INSTRUCTORS

Paul is so busy with all these changes that he has not been able to take any breaks during his day, let alone fit in a lunch break. He has also been working back more and more to get things done and is finding it increasingly difficult to juggle his work life and his personal life.

Paul has raised this with Laura, Human Resources Manager, who has informed him that the company has a Health and Wellbeing Strategy template he can use to help him plan for and manage his health and wellbeing. Laura has recommended that once Paul has trialed this himself that he could pass this tool on to the rest of the team to help them with their own challenges in this space.

Part C: Review and update health and wellbeing strategy in line with changing circumstances

Read the scenario and complete the instructions that follow.

Scenario

With the staff shortages and longer hours expected of the existing trainers, most of the trainers working a 10-hour day, Naomi and David have both resigned.

This leaves the center down two full time Fitness Instructors and only one First Aid trained team member who only works core business hours, leaving no one before 9am and after 5pm or on weekends.

The resignations have resulted in three (3) new trainers being employed, Beck, Natasha, and Kevin. Beck has over a decade worth of experience and is a valued asset. While the new employees are a welcomed addition, they are not yet able to run classes unsupervised until they have completed their induction training at Bounce, putting added pressure on Paul and the rest of the staff until training is complete.

Within the last week, Paul has had his sister, brother-in-law and niece relocating from interstate. They will be living with him and his wife for the foreseeable future. Paul has offered to help them find somewhere more permanent to live.

Paul is now needing to ensure he is able to spend quality time with his family, help his sister find somewhere to live, keep on track with his mindfulness and physical activity along with the fitness centre is being run properly in his absence.

Task 1: Modify Health and Wellbeing strategy

Assume the role of Paul and revisit the Personal Health and Wellbeing Strategy you developed in Part A Task 1 above. Copy what you developed above for Section A, B and C and update any changes according to the new circumstances in the workplace.

You will need to identify at least two (2) new circumstances outlined in the scenario one (1) work related and one (1) personal. Outline what changes you have made to the plan and why you have implemented them in Section D.
