Assessment Information

Submission

You are entitled to three (3) attempts to complete this assessment satisfactorily. Incomplete assessments will not be marked and will count as one of your three attempts.

All questions must be responded to correctly to be assessed as satisfactory for this assessment.

Answers must be typed into the space provided and submitted electronically via the LMS. Hand-written assessments will not be accepted unless previously arranged with your assessor.

Reasonable adjustment

Students may request a reasonable adjustment for assessment tasks.

Reasonable adjustment usually involves varying:

- the processes for conducting the assessment (e.g. allowing additional time)
- the evidence gathering techniques (e.g. oral rather than written questioning, use of a scribe, modifications to equipment)

However, the evidence collected must allow the student to demonstrate all requirements of the unit.

Refer to the Student Handbook or contact your Trainer for further information.

Please consider the environment before printing this assessment.

Question 1

Describe the following types of disabilities and their functional capacities.

(Word count: Approximately 125 -130 words in total)

Assessor note: Students must provide a brief explanation as per the below sample answer, however students wording may vary

Disability	Description	Functionality
Physical (Word count: Approximately 35-45 words in total)	These involve impairments affecting mobility, motor skills, or physical functioning.	Mobility and independence: A person using a wheelchair might have exceptional skills in manoeuvring through crowded spaces, effectively using ramps and elevators, and adapting to various terrains.
Cognitive (Word count: Approximately 50-55 words in total)	These impact cognitive processes such as memory, reasoning, and problem-solving. Conditions like intellectual disabilities and certain neurological disorders fall into this category.	Attention to Detail: Someone with a cognitive disability might possess remarkable attention to detail, excelling in tasks that require precision, like organising objects or following step-by-step instructions.
Sensory (Word count: Approximately 40-50 words in total)	Sensory impairments affect hearing, vision, or both. Deafness, blindness, and conditions related to these senses are included.	Tactile Expertise: Someone with visual impairment might have advanced tactile perception, using their sense of touch to read braille, interpret textures, and identify objects.

Question 2

This question has six (6) parts. You must complete all the parts.

Assessor note: Students must provide a brief explanation as per the below sample answer, however students wording may vary

a.	Describe psychosocial disability? (Approximate word count 35-45 words) Psychosocial disability relates to difficulties in mental well-being and social interactions. It shows how mental health problems can impact the daily life and quality of life of individuals with disabilities.
b.	Explain the impact psychosocial disability may have on persons with disabilities? (Approximate word count 45-55 words)

Student name: Click or tap here to enter text

Student number: Click or tap here to enter text

	Psychosocial disability can deeply affect people with disabilities. It can make mental well-being, social interactions, and daily activities harder. Communication and relationships might become difficult, impacting overall happiness, and needing special care.
c.	Briefly explain the differences between psychosocial disability and mental health. (Approximate word count 65-75 words) Psychosocial disability focuses on challenges in mental well-being and social interactions that hinder daily life, often requiring assistance. In contrast, mental health encompasses a broader spectrum of emotional, psychological, and cognitive well-being. While psychosocial disability targets specific impairments in functioning, mental health covers a wider range of mental states, from flourishing to distress, necessitating varying levels of support and intervention.
d.	For individuals with disabilities, describe the episodic nature of psychosocial disabilities? (Approximate word count 55-65 words) Psychosocial disabilities come and go in episodes. Sometimes things are stable, but then there are times when difficulties increase. These ups and downs affect daily life, relationships, and well-being. People need flexible support to help them during these changing times.
e.	Describe (3) additional or alternate supports that may be required during different periods of episodic psychosocial disabilities? (Approximate word count 100-120 words in total) Stable Periods - Regular Check-ins with Mental Health Professionals In times when things are stable, having regular check-ins with mental health professionals like therapists or counsellors can be very helpful. These meetings can assist in maintaining well-being, learning coping strategies, and setting goals to manage psychosocial disabilities. Adjustments to Treatment Plans When the situation changes, treatment plans might need adjustments. This could mean changes in medication doses, therapy frequency, or trying new therapeutic methods to adapt to the ups and downs of the condition. Challenging Times During tougher periods, more community support can make a difference. Participating more in support groups, counselling sessions, or connecting with peers can provide extra help to manage increased difficulties.
f.	List two (2) ways in which psychosocial disability interacts with other disabilities and provide 1 example for each. (Approximate word count 110-115 words) <table border="1"> <thead> <tr> <th>Interaction</th> <th>Example</th> </tr> </thead> <tbody> <tr> <td>Psychosocial disability can have a significant impact on physical health. Mental health challenges like chronic stress, anxiety, or depression can contribute to or worsen physical health conditions.</td> <td>For instance, someone dealing with psychosocial disability might experience heightened symptoms of cardiovascular diseases or autoimmune disorders due to the influence of mental well-being on overall bodily health.</td> </tr> <tr> <td>People with pre-existing physical disabilities may be more susceptible to developing psychosocial disabilities due to the emotional and psychological impact of their physical condition.</td> <td>For example, an individual with a spinal cord injury might experience depression or anxiety as a result of the challenges posed by their disability. This co-occurrence can intensify the overall impact on their well-being.</td> </tr> </tbody> </table>		Interaction	Example	Psychosocial disability can have a significant impact on physical health. #### Question 4

This question has 2 parts. You must complete all parts.

(Word count: Approximately 135-140 words in total)

Assessor note: Students must provide a brief explanation as per the below sample answer, however students wording may vary

a.	How do person-centred approaches encompass the principles of upholding autonomy, supporting individuals to exercise choice, and respects the person's right to self-determination? Person-centred approaches embrace autonomy by valuing individuals' independence. They empower people to make choices, respecting their right to decide about their lives. This approach acknowledges their authority over their journey, creating a supportive framework that recognizes their uniqueness and honours their decisions
b.	Explain how these elements contribute to creating a personalised and empowering support framework.

By upholding autonomy, individuals feel respected and in control, leading to a support system that truly understands and meets their needs. Supporting individuals to make choices empowers them, making them active participants in their own lives, which in turn fosters a sense of ownership over their journey. Respecting the person's right to self-determination acknowledges their individuality, building trust and rapport, and ensuring that the support provided aligns with their goals. This combination creates a framework where individuals are valued, empowered, and able to shape their own path, resulting in a more meaningful and effective support experience.

Question 5

This question has 2 parts. You must complete all parts.

(Approximate word count 105-110 words)

Assessor note: Benchmark answers provided below. Students' answers must align as per sample answers provided below however wording may vary.

a. Explain what the term 'dignity of risk' means in the disability sector?

Dignity of risk recognises that individuals have the right to make choices and take risks in their lives, even if there is a possibility of harm. It emphasizes the importance of preserving autonomy and dignity while balancing the need for safety.

b. As a support worker how can you uphold the dignity of risk while providing support to a client to exercise their choice of wanting to do physical exercise, even though they have mobility issues.

Support workers can engage in open and honest discussions with an individual about their desire to engage in physical exercises and walks independently. They can assess the person's capabilities and develop strategies to mitigate risks while allowing them to maintain a level of independence. This might involve providing the person with additional mobility aids, implementing fall prevention measures, and ensuring they receive appropriate supervision and support.

Question 6

Explain your understanding of duty of care as a support worker in disability

(Approximate word count 45-50 words)

Assessor note: Benchmark answers provided below. Students' answers must align as per sample answers provided below however wording may vary Duty of care refers to the legal and moral obligation that individuals and organisations have to ensure the safety, well-being, and rights of people with disabilities.

This duty extends to all aspects of care and support provided to individuals with disabilities, including their physical, emotional, and social needs.

Question 7

Question 7

There are two (2) parts to this question.

- a. Read the scenario about David and answer each question.
- b. Read the five (5) short scenarios and identify the type of abuse within each.

a. Scenario - David

David is a 25-year-old man with intellectual disabilities. He lives in a supported living apartment complex where he receives assistance from disability support workers with daily living activities such as cooking, cleaning, personal grooming and showering.

David is a very social and outgoing person who always likes to look immaculate. He enjoys spending time with his friends and family. David's sister had been trying to call him for 2 days, but he had not been picking up her phone calls. She became worried for him and went to the apartment complex for a visit.

When he answered the door and went inside, she was shocked to find that the apartment was in a state of disrepair. The dishes were piled high in the sink, clothes were overflowing from the laundry hamper, and the bathroom was filthy. She noticed that David had appeared to have lost some weight, his clothing was stained, and he appeared very unkempt. She also noticed slight bruising on his arm.

David's sister was immediately concerned and asked where his support worker was? David told her that the support worker had not been coming to work regularly. When he did come to work, he would only stay for an hour or so and would not help David with anything. David also said that the support worker was always mean to him and calls him names.

Student number: Click or tap here to enter text

This question has three(3) parts. You must complete all parts.

(Word count: Approximately 150 – 160)

a.	Briefly explain the role of national legislation in Australia in the disability sector.
	The role of national legislation in Australia in disability creates a legal structure that governs the provision of disability support services nationwide. This legislation outlines the rights and responsibilities of both service providers and individuals with disabilities. It also establishes standards to uphold quality and safety in disability support services, ensuring that individuals receive appropriate care and support.
b.	What is the role and responsibility of State/Territory legislation in disability sector in Australia?
	State/Territory legislation in disability complements national laws by offering additional regulations tailored to each jurisdiction. It can cover topics like licensing of disability support facilities, local compliance needs, and unique provisions for disability services within that specific jurisdiction.
c.	How do State/Territory legislation and national legislation work together to contribute to upholding legal and human rights in the disability sector?
	Both national and State/Territory legislation play a crucial role in safeguarding human rights in the context of disability support. They establish legal structures that prioritise the rights, dignity, and well-being of individuals with disabilities. These legislations ensure that disability support services are delivered while upholding principles like individual autonomy, non-discrimination, and the right to live without abuse or neglect.

Question 11

This question has four (4) parts. You must complete all parts.

(Word count: Approximately 200 – 205)

Assessor note: Students must provide a brief explanation as per the below sample answer, however students wording may vary

a.	Briefly explain the purpose of mandatory reporting within the legal and human rights framework. The purpose of mandatory reporting is to ensure the protection of individuals' rights and well-being. By making it a legal obligation to report certain incidents, it helps to identify and address instances of abuse, harm, or neglect, thereby safeguarding the rights and safety of vulnerable individuals. In Australia, disability sector workers have a legal obligation to report suspected or observed cases of abuse, neglect, or exploitation of older adults.
b.	What legislation governs the mandatory reporting obligations in the disability sector in Australia? The National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) Quality and Safeguarding Framework, specifically the NDIS (Provider Registration and Practice Standards) Rules 2018, governs the mandatory reporting obligations in the disability sector in Australia.
c.	Explain the significance of maintaining privacy and confidentiality of information in the disability sector, in accordance with the legal and human rights framework? Maintaining privacy and confidentiality of information in disability sector is essential to uphold the rights and dignity of residents. It ensures that sensitive personal information is protected from unauthorised access and disclosure, respecting individuals' autonomy and right to privacy.
d.	What legislation governs the privacy and confidentiality of information in the disability sector in Australia? The legislation that governs the privacy and confidentiality of information in the disability sector in Australia is the Privacy Act 1988 (Commonwealth) and the Australian Privacy Principles (APPs). These laws provide guidelines and regulations for how personal information should be collected, used, stored, and disclosed, ensuring that disability sector providers handle residents' information with utmost care and compliance with legal standards.

Question 12

This question has 2 parts. You must complete all parts.

Briefly explain the concept of informed and uninformed consent, and why is it important within the legal and ethical frameworks in Australia?

(Approximate word count 120-125 words)

Student name:

Student number:

a.	Briefly explain the concept of informed and uninformed consent,
	Informed consent involves obtaining approval from an individual after offering clear and understandable details about a medical procedure, treatment, or intervention. It guarantees the person comprehends the procedure's nature, risks, advantages, and options before deciding to proceed or decline, making an informed choice.
	Uninformed consent arises when an individual agrees without fully grasping relevant information or potential consequences. Reasons include insufficient provider information, individual comprehension issues, or even coercion.
b.	Why is it important within the legal and ethical frameworks in Australia?
	Informed and uninformed consent are crucial as they uphold autonomy, allow healthcare choices, and ensure transparent, accountable care. Uninformed consent might apply in emergencies where a person can't give informed consent due to medical reasons. Healthcare providers act in the person's best interest, considering prior wishes and consulting family or substitutes as needed.

Question 13

This question has three(3) parts. You must complete all parts.

Assessor note: Students must provide a brief explanation as per the below sample answer, however students wording may vary

a.	How do industry standards impact disability support services? (Approximate word count 20-25 words)
	Industry standards establish guidelines and benchmarks for providing high-quality disability support services, ensuring consistent and safe care for individuals with disabilities.
b.	What is the purpose of the NDIS code of conduct for disability support providers? (Approximate word count 30-35 words)
	NDIS Code of Conduct plays a pivotal role in maintaining the highest standards of care and support within the disability sector, fostering a culture of professionalism, respect, and accountability among disability support providers.
c.	What is the significance of an industry standards body with disability support services? (Approximate word count 30-35 words)
	An industry standards body serves as an authoritative organisation that develops and enforces standards, regulations, and best practices for disability support services, fostering accountability, quality improvement, and consistency across the industry.

Question 14

This question has five (5) parts relating to the context of attitudes and stereotypes. You must complete all parts.

Assessor note: Students must provide a brief explanation as per the below sample answer, however students wording may vary

a.	What does the term paternalism refer to in the context of attitudes and stereotypes? (Approximate word count 30-40 words)
	Paternalism is an attitude where individuals or institutions assume a role of authority over others, often making decisions for them without their input, which can undermine the autonomy and dignity of individuals with disabilities.
b.	What does the term ableism mean? (Approximate word count 30-40 words) Ableism refers to discrimination or prejudice against individuals with disabilities, based on the belief that non-disabled individuals are superior. It contributes to negative attitudes and stereotypes that can hinder inclusivity and equal opportunities.
c.	How does stigma influence perceptions of disability? (Approximate word count 20-25 words)
	Stigma involves negative perceptions and stereotypes associated with disability, leading to social isolation, discrimination, and barriers to inclusion for individuals with disabilities.
d.	What are two (2) common misconceptions about disability? (Approximate word count 30-40 words)
	Common misconceptions about disability include believing that all disabilities are visible, assuming that individuals with disabilities are not capable of certain activities or thinking that disability is solely a medical issue rather than a diverse aspect of human experience.
e.	Why is it important to avoid making value judgments about the perceived quality of life for individuals with disabilities? (Approximate word count 30-40 words)
	Making value judgments about someone's quality of life based on their disability can be harmful and disrespectful. It overlooks the individual's unique experiences, preferences, and strengths, leading to reduced self-esteem and limiting their opportunities for personal growth and fulfillment.

Question 15

Explain your understanding of the Social Model of Disability

(Approximate word count 40-50 words)

Assessor note: Students must provide a brief explanation as per the below sample answer, however students wording may vary

Student name: Click or tap here to enter text

Student number: Click or tap here to enter text

The Social Model of Disability focuses on the idea that disability is primarily a result of societal barriers and attitudes rather than an inherent flaw in the individual. It promotes the removal of these barriers to ensure full participation and inclusion.

Question 16

Explain what a person-centered approach is within disability support

(Approximate word count 25-30 words)

Assessor note: Students must provide a brief explanation as per the below sample answer, however students wording may vary

Person-centred approaches prioritise the individual's preferences, needs, and aspirations. They involve tailoring support to align with the person's goals and values, fostering autonomy and meaningful engagement.

Question 17

What characterises the contemporary view on disability support?

(Approximate word count 25-30 words)

Assessor note: Students must provide a brief explanation as per the below sample answer, however students wording may vary

The contemporary view on disability support emphasises empowerment, inclusion, and choice. It seeks to provide individuals with disabilities the tools, opportunities, and resources to lead fulfilling lives on their own terms.

Question 18

Describe how "care" differs from "support"?

Question 24

This question has four(4) parts. You must complete all parts of the question.

Assessor note: Students must provide a brief explanation as per the below sample answer, however students wording may vary

a.	Briefly explain what do reporting lines refer to in the context of disability services. (Approximate word count 85-90 words)	Reporting lines refer to the structured hierarchy within an organization that outlines how information, updates, and concerns should flow from one level to another. As a disability support worker, you are likely part of a team or organisation that provides support services to individuals with disabilities. Understanding your reporting lines involves knowing to whom you report, who reports to you (if applicable), and the process for sharing information up and down the hierarchy. This ensures that important information reaches the right people, enabling effective coordination and decision-making.
b.	What is the role of delegation in providing quality care in disability services? (Approximate word count 65-70 words)	Delegations involve assigning specific tasks, responsibilities, and authority to individuals within an organisation. Disability support workers may be delegated certain tasks or duties based on their skills, qualifications, and training. These tasks could include administering medication, assisting with personal care, or implementing specific support plans. It's important to understand your delegated tasks, follow proper protocols, and communicate any challenges or concerns to your supervisor or higher authority.
c.	How is working under supervision implemented in disability services? (Approximate word count 45-50 words)	In disability services, working under supervision is carried out by having experienced professionals oversee and guide support workers' tasks, ensuring adherence to protocols and providing necessary feedback. Regular communication, observation, and training are key components of this approach to maintain high-quality care for individuals with disabilities.
d.	Describe the role of an interdisciplinary teams in disability services. (Approximate word count 45-50 words)	Interdisciplinary teams in disability services involve professionals from different fields, such as social work, healthcare, psychology, and education, collaborating to provide comprehensive care and support for individuals with disabilities. These teams pool their expertise to address various aspects of an individual's needs, leading to more holistic and effective solutions.

Question 25

There are 6 parts to the question. You must complete all parts.

Assessors note: Students answers must be as per the sample answer provided below however the wording may vary.

a.	Identify 3 key organisations within disability services and provide a brief explanation for each. (Approximate word count 160-165 words)
	1. The NDIA operates the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS). It provides individualised support for eligible people with permanent and significant disability, their families, and carers, encourages greater inclusion and access to mainstream services, community activities and other government initiatives.
	2. The Disability Employment Services / Supported Employment Services (DES/SES) is a framework that has been designed to give people with a disability greater confidence in the outcome's employment services can achieve for them and ensure all services meet a set of standards for Disability Employment Services. Service providers in the DES/SES scheme are required to be assessed to the National Standards for Disability Services (NSDS).
	3. The Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency (AHPRA): Collaborates with 15 national health practitioner boards to enforce the National Registration and Accreditation Scheme and administer health practitioner regulations across states and territories. These boards regulate registered health practitioners by setting standards, registering professionals, and addressing concerns about health, conduct, or performance. Their main goal is safeguarding the public.
b.	List three (3) types of funding that the NDIS scheme provides to eligible participants? (Approximate word count 20-25 words)
	The NDIS scheme provides funding supports to eligible participants for things like: 1. Transportation 2. Daily living 3. Assistive Technology
c.	Describe the difference between a verification quality audit and a certification audit that a disability service provider goes through when they're registering or renewing their registration with the NDIS. (Approximate word count 45-50 words)
	Verification audits are for simpler services, focusing on professional qualifications and existing regulations. Certification audits are for complex or high-risk services, evaluating against NDIS Practice Standards and involving a broader assessment including capabilities and specific descriptors.
d.	Describe the importance of a disability service having robust record keeping procedures in place. (Approximate word count 30-35 words)
	Record keeping is vital for accountability, transparency, compliance, informed decision-making, and establishing trust among stakeholders. It also serves legal and regulatory requirements, supports learning from past experiences, and ensures efficient operations.

Question 26

This question has 3 parts. You must complete all parts.

Assessor note: Students must provide a brief explanation as per the below sample answer, however students wording may vary

Question	Answer
a. Why is cultural diversity important in disability services? (Approximate word count 30-35 words)	Cultural diversity recognizes and respects the unique backgrounds, values, and beliefs of individuals from different cultures. In aged care, it is crucial to provide culturally appropriate care, honouring diversity and promoting inclusivity.
b. Why is it important to understand cultural competency requirements when working in disability services? (Approximate word count 35-45words)	Cultural competency ensures that disability support professionals offer respectful, effective, and person-centered care that aligns with the diverse backgrounds and needs of the individuals they support. It helps create an inclusive and safe environment where all individuals can thrive.
c. As a Disability Support Worker, how can you show respect for cultural differences. (Approximate word count 65-75 words)	As a Disability Support Worker, you can show respect for cultural differences by actively listening to individuals from diverse backgrounds, valuing their beliefs and traditions, adapting your communication style to their preferences, and incorporating their cultural practices into their care routines. It's important to approach each person with an open mind, avoid making assumptions, and always strive to provide person-centered support that acknowledges and respects their unique cultural identity.

Question 27

Access Topic 14.4 on the LMS regarding key issues facing disability support and community support in Australia and answer the following questions.

Assessor Note: The students must access and write the key issues as per the information provided under Topic 14.4 of the LMS.

a.	What is the State of the Disability Sector Report 2022? (Approximate word count 65-75 words)
	The State of the Disability Sector Report 2022 is developed by the National Disability Services and based on responses from disability service providers from all over the country who participate in their annual State of the Disability Sector Survey. This helps to identify and collect information, opinions, and data to better understand the sector and to make recommendations or decisions based on their responses.
b.	Identify five (5) key issues that were identified in the State of the Disability Sector Report 2022 (Approximate word count 155-160 words)

Student name: Click or tap here to enter text

Student number: Click or tap here to enter text

	Students must provide five (5) out of eight (8) of the issues listed below.
1.	Ninety-three per cent of respondents reported that the COVID-19 pandemic was having ongoing financial and operational impacts on the sector. Many cited staffing issues related to recruitment, sickness, costs of PPE and vaccination refusal.
2.	The sector seeks reform but is weary of constant change. Policymakers should focus on simplifying solutions for providers with limited resources to engage in reviews and contribute their expertise. Reforms should be gradually implemented to sustain momentum
3.	The effectiveness of approaches that lead to employment outcomes for people with disabilities remains unclear. The sector requires investment in a transition process for supported employment that outlines provider requirements and ensures a sustainable future for supported employees.
4.	Minimising reporting duplication among regulators, eliminate unnecessary red tape that hampers service effectiveness without enhancing standards, and address the imbalance between registered and unregistered providers.
5.	Focus on quality and safeguarding measures that improve outcomes and share data that support providers to innovate and identify good practice
	More funding is needed for fit-for-purpose training, support and supervision, visible career pathways and leadership opportunities.
	As reforms and improvements are identified, the sector will need support to implement them. This will require clear communication to participants and providers, appropriate timeframes and resourcing, and mitigation of any unintended consequences.
	Providers have given useful feedback about what improves their worker recruitment effort and where the greatest challenges lie.

Question 28

There are 2 parts to this question. You must complete all parts.

Assessor note: Students must provide a brief explanation as per the below sample answer, however students wording may vary

a. Describe the steps of the risk assessment framework
Step 1 (Approximate word count 45-55words)	Identify the hazards To initiate risk management, the first step involves recognising potential hazards. A hazard encompasses anything capable of causing harm to people. Some hazards are inherent in work processes, such as machinery, stairs, or hazardous chemicals. Others manifest as failures, including broken equipment or human mistakes.
Step 2 (Approximate word count 25-30words)	Assess the risk The next step is to evaluate the risk level associated with each identified hazard. This information is pivotal in determining the most effective methods to manage those risks.
Step 3 (Approximate word count 50-60words)	Control the risk Once you've identified workplace risks, your next step is to safeguard employees by effectively managing those risks. A control denotes any action that lessens a risk. In some cases, one control might suffice to eradicate a risk, such as eliminating a tripping hazard. However, certain risks may require multiple control measures.
Step 4 (Approximate word count 30-40words)	Reviewing controls Risk management should be an ongoing process in your organisation and control measures are reviewed regularly. In some situations, work health and safety legislation require controls to be reviewed.

b. Describe the risk assessment considerations for the following roles/actions.
Role/Action	Risk Assessment Considerations
Personal Care Worker (Approximate word count 40-50words)	When working as a personal care worker, you would need to consider risks such as manual handling when transferring clients. Minimising these types of risks may include having the necessary equipment, e.g., hoists or grab bars and ensuring the worker is fully trained in manual handling techniques.
Working in a person's home (Approximate word count 60-70words)	When working in a person's home a support worker may need to consider hazards such as slippery floors, faulty electrical equipment, or cluttered walkways. The worker would need to consider the client's safety and implement measures such as safely decluttering walkways or having non-slip mats to reduce trips and slips. Risk assessments should be conducted regularly to ensure ongoing safety.
Assisting a person to engage outside of their regular setting (Approximate word count 60-65words)	Assisting a person to engage outside of their regular setting involves evaluating potential health and safety risks ensuring that necessary precautions are taken to mitigate these risks while enabling the person's participation in different environments. For example, uneven terrain, steep ramps, or crowded pathways may cause mobility and accessibility challenges that can pose a risk to the persons safety.
Planning an activity (Approximate word count 20-30words)	Risks assessments considerations may include assessing whether the client needs safety equipment, e.g., a helmet or other safety gear for participating in recreational activities?
Medication (Approximate word count 20-30words)	The risks may include missing a dose of medication, taking the wrong dose (too much or too little), or taking the wrong medication.
