Case Study

For the purpose of this assessment, you will play the role of the Network Operations Technician at Bounce Fitness. More information about your role is provided in ICTICT451_02_Job Description Network Operations Technician.

For the purpose of this assessment, Bounce Fitness is located in your State/Territory.

Scenario:

The Network Security Analyst at Bounce Fitness diligently conducts quarterly security assessments and vulnerability scans of the organisation's network infrastructure. During his latest assessment, he identified several critical vulnerabilities in the Wi-Fi network, including outdated security protocols and weak passwords used by employees.

He immediately collaborated with the Systems Administrator to address these vulnerabilities. The Systems Administrator promptly implemented strong encryption protocols (WPA3) for the Wi-Fi networks and enforced strict access controls. She also conducted training sessions for employees on password complexity requirements and policies.

A few weeks later, Bounce Fitness experienced a minor security incident involving a phishing attempt. Thanks to The Network Security Analyst's thorough monitoring and detection systems, the phishing attempt was quickly identified and contained before any data breach occurred. The Network Security Analyst's incident response logs and resolution timelines demonstrated his quick and effective response to security incidents.

Meanwhile, The Systems Administrator's implementation of backup and disaster recovery solutions proved invaluable when a hardware failure occurred in one of the critical server components. The redundant systems and failover mechanisms she had put in place minimised downtime and data loss, ensuring business continuity.

The quarterly security audit reports and incident response outcomes reflected the effectiveness of the network security measures implemented by both personnel. Their collaboration, proactive measures, and continuous monitoring significantly reduced the organisation's exposure to security risks and protected Bounce Fitness's intellectual property (IP) from potential breaches.
